

Claudette Wood is an active member of Crestwood Baptist Church. Her husband, David, was pastor of the church for 14 years before retiring in December 2014. Both Claudette and Dave have remained active at Crestwood since his retirement. David currently sings in the church choir and participates in the weekly men's prayer group. Claudette is the Sunday School Director, teaches an adult Sunday school class, and leads a Women's Bible study group. Having recently retired from active outside employment, Claudette enjoys spending her days with Dave. Together, they take walks with their dog, Gracie, exercise at the local gym, and attend various sporting events in which their grandsons participate. In addition, Claudette writes posts for her church's website, as well as her own website, claudettewood.com.
